Certified Horsemanship Association Welcomes Cheley Colorado Camps Horsemanship Director as New President

- Bo Winslow of Estes Park, Colorado was elected president of the Certified Horsemanship Association for the 2007 - 2009 term at the association's annual conference held in Fort Collins, Colorado in September.

Winslow has been with Cheley Colorado Camps in Estes Park since 1985 as the Horsemanship Director and the Site and Facility Manager. He has worked with horses in many capacities including, breeding, training, taking dudes on rides and barn management. Cheley Colorado Camps own 1,600 acres of pristine mountain land bordering National Forest and the National Park. The camps have five riding arenas and own 150 horses.

The riding program that Winslow runs at Cheley is one of the many programs offered. Each camp unit has a string of 14 - 20 horses. Free-choice sign-ups give campers the opportunity to go on half day, all day, and on overnight rides or work with the colt training program. Campers learn all the different aspects of horsemanship. The focus is on good horsemanship, control, riding form, having fun and safety.

Due to that concern of safety within his own program, Winslow became active on CHA's board of directors and a member of many working committees. He has been involved with CHA since the mid 1980s. He is a CHA Trail Clinic Instructor, which means that he certifies trail guides that attend CHA trail certification clinics around the continent. Winslow lives with his wife, Lauri, and his children, Justin and Nicole, is a captain at his local fire department and is a deacon at his church. In his spare time, he enjoys working in his wood shop.

The purpose of CHA is to promote excellence in safety and education for the benefit of the horse industry. CHA certifies instructors and trail guides, accredits equestrian facilities and provides support and educational resources.
