New CHA Trail Guide Manual on Sale Now

(June 2009) – The Certified Horsemanship Association (CHA) has just released its newest publication – CHA Trail Guide Manual. Written by leading trail guide professionals from around the United States and Canada, it is a comprehensive guide to trail riding, camping and packing out with your horses and mules.

This manual is complete with how-to illustrations and photographs and is a must-have for all avid trail riders, overnight campers and wilderness packing guides. With educational illustrations by Susan Harris and edited by Julie Goodnight, it has four levels of horsemanship, trail ride information, camping with your horse, knots, packing, safety on the trail, Dutch oven cooking and much more!

“Determining what trail riders and guides really need to know was the key to this publication,” says contributing author Jack Breaks of British Columbia. “Input came from both recreational and commercial trail riders at every level of experience and from all over North America - so it really is a trail rider community effort.”

To order yours today – please contact CHA. For editors that are willing to do a published review in your publication, CHA will gladly send a complimentary copy to you. Please contact Christy at clandwehr@CHA-ahse.org.
