Certified Horsemanship Association Teams Up With Equestrian Professional and Riding Resource

(March 2010) – Networking is what the horse industry is all about and The Certified Horsemanship Association (CHA) recently partnered with EquestrianProfessional.com and RidingResource.com to help its members.

The website www.RidingResource.com is a fully-searchable comprehensive database of stables in the United States and Canada. As an added bonus, for every new member who signs up through a link on the CHA site, Equestrian Professional will donate a portion of their membership fee back to CHA in the form of an affiliate bonus.

“Both of these groups have great educational and marketing opportunities for our certified riding instructors and barns to be able to use,” says Christy Landwehr CEO for Certified Horsemanship Association. “We are big believers in not having to reinvent the wheel and Riding Resource and Equestrian Professional are providing resources that will greatly benefit our members.”

“We’re very excited to be working with CHA; by listing on RidingResource.com, instructors and facilities will benefit from added exposure to help grow their businesses while riders can now quickly and easily find CHA-accredited locations to ride near them,” states Co-Founder of Riding Resource Ainsley Hyman.

“We applaud CHA’s commitment to safety and education and are very happy to support CHA’s programs and instructors,” says Elizabeth McMillan owner of EquestrianProfessionals.com.

The purpose of CHA is to promote excellence in safety and education for the benefit of the horse industry.
